

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

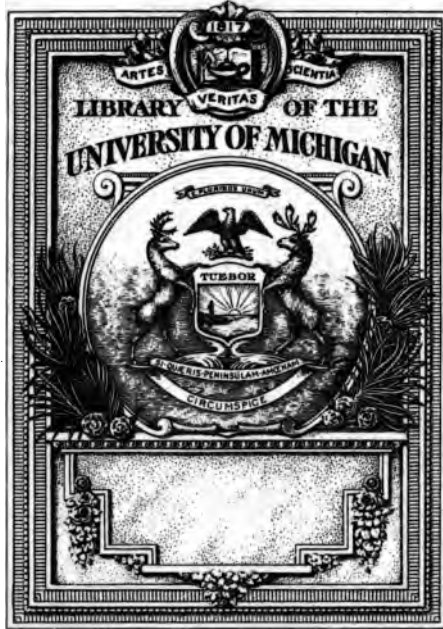

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. # REPORT

STATE LIBRARIAN.

To the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania :

GENTLEMEN: In obedience to the law, I herewith present my report for the period terminating November 30, 1888:

By the list appended, the additions to the library will be seen,—the number of books (miscellaneous, rebellion, and law) secured by purchase, those acquired by exchange, and those donated to the library. Also, the entire expenses of the library for the period covered by my superintendence commencing on the 3d of March, 1887.

By the accumulations, this library has outgrown the accommodations made for it twenty-one years ago, the space then being considered ample for fifty years to come—and yet its increase is not commensurate with the demands of the age for works of reference in all branches of literature and science.

When it is taken into consideration, that this library can be referred to at all times by every citizen of the Commonwealth, it is very important that the best works upon every known subject should be placed upon its shelves. Heretofore the library of the State has been looked upon by many as a circulating library for the citizens of Harrisburg and the State in general. In some measure this has been the case, but the law positively forbids it, and “custom” for years seems to have nullified the law. There is not a State library in the Union which allows it, and yet such is the “popular feeling” that no librarian is willing to take the responsibility of ignoring it altogether. For reference, the nucleus of this library was first formed—and for reference alone it should be preserved and fostered.

The visitors to the library during the term have reached to many thousands, while the number who daily and weekly refer to it within a single year can also be counted by the thousands. A gentleman who recently visited most of the large libraries in the United States remarked that he saw more persons refer to works in the State Library of Pennsylvania in a single day than he observed in upwards of a dozen of the so-called great libraries of the country.

have endeavored in vain to give the exact number of books in the library, but find this impossible, as many books are not upon the interleaved printed catalogue. The last catalogue was prepared twelve years ago. To-day the number of volumes is double. The objection made that a catalogue would be useless in case a new building be erected, bears little weight. A properly prepared and classified catalogue on some well defined plan or system can be utilized even should such an auspicious event be realized. If authorized, it can be so arranged that the future annual reports of the librarian may be employed as supplements, and thus the catalogue continued indefinitely. It will be a great task, and will occupy at least two years in its accomplishment.

The crowded condition of the library, and its insecurity from fire, urgently demand that increased accommodations be provided for, in fact a new library building,—so that this valuable collection shall not only be preserved, but that the public in general, and students in particular, have every convenience afforded them. The General Assembly of 1889 have it in their power to prepare for the future care of this library, a measure which cannot be too strongly brought to their consideration. This collection of books is for the use of the citizens of what is rapidly growing to be the Empire State of the Republic, to which its five millions of people may come and make research in all branches of thought. It may here with propriety be said, that every dollar invested in the library remains the property of the State.

The public documents of the State, as stated in the remarks regarding exchanges have been distributed. The number allotted to the State Librarian for this purpose is entirely too small. He should be placed in possession of at least one hundred and fifty (150) copies each of the laws, journals and official documents (except the annual hand-book of which there should be two hundred (200) copies) for exchange. The law of 1887, increasing the number of copies furnished the several departments, says that full sets of all documents published by any department be furnished the State Library. The question is, what constitutes a set? Notwithstanding this fact there are documents issued by departments of which not a copy is sent to the library—notably, the quarterly report of the Board of Agriculture, and the memorial volumes printed by direction of the Legislature. The State Librarian should not be required to beg these documents for preservation in the library. Some provision should also be made requiring that complete bound copies of the Legislative Record be furnished the library. Through the courtesy of the Senate Librarian he secured four copies of the volumes for 1887. The law directs that two complete files of all bills, calendars, etc., be furnished the library by the State Printer. This, it is to be devoutly wished for, will, in future, be done. The “Birds of Pennsylvania” ordered to be published, leaves the library out in the distribution of what ought to be a valuable work for our exchange. I would not allude to it, were it not from the fact, that the librarians of the different States have written for a copy. It is in these libraries that such a work should be placed, and our State cannot ignore them. These, however, are matters which I am assured will receive your favorable consideration.

The library has suffered severe losses, and with the utmost care and watchfulness, books have disappeared. Volumes which were catalogued ten or twelve years ago, some of rarity, are not to be found. Here and there, two, three and more volumes are missing from a set of magazines or reviews, while newspaper files have been scissored, and engravings of value cut out of rare volumes. These pilferings in times past have necessitated the close keeping of cases. Owing to the very bad and crowded arrangement of these, much increased labor thereof devolves upon the librarians. Here again can be seen the importance of a new library building constructed to meet the requirements of the age, and commensurate with the wants of the public.

By referring to the several acts of the Assembly relating to the library, and also to the rules as set forth by the joint committee on the same, it is readily seen how one conflicts with the other, and how inadequate both are for the proper government of the State Library. I would respectfully suggest the enacting of a law providing for a board of regents, consisting of the Governor, the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Attorney General, whom the Librarian might consult in whatever may pertain to the condition of the library, its arrangement, and at times to such purchases, as the occasion or emergency might demand. With the officers named, the librarian has freely consulted and solicited advice which was cheerfully and cordially given; but if the law required such consultation, it would relieve that officer from a responsibility which at times is severely felt. The term of office, and other matters of greater or less importance are commended to your attention.

The library force is entirely too small. The result has been that extra service has been employed, which with the heavy drain demanded by the freight and expressage on exchanges sent out, allows little, or nothing to meet other contingencies which may arise. If the library is to receive the care and attention it deserves, if it is to be conducted as one of thorough reference, every assistance should be given it by the General Assembly.

Strenuous efforts have been made to present at this time a regular and systematic classification of the library. By the labor, however, of at least a twelve-month, it has only been possible to place in excellent arrangement the various publications of the National Government, with those of the States, Territories and foreign countries—including, also, all works relating to the law. Owing to the delay in securing additional cases, not as much has been accomplished for the books of a miscellaneous character. This work has so far progressed, that in a very few months it is expected the library will present a condition creditable to the State and to those in charge. As it is, we can now see not only the poverty of the Library, but also its wealth.

At present the library numbers about sixty-six thousand (66,000) volumes—the additions to it during my term of office, having been, from all sources, including pamphlets, about five thousand (5,000).

In the fond hope that this Department may receive your liberal fostering care, I beg leave to present this, my first report, for your respectful consideration.
